“ Anncole was my 18 year old cat. My mom and I decided to get another cat when hers died. We looked for kittens on Christmas Eve and found a little black cat that no one wanted. I insisted that we get Anncole, and I wouldn't leave without her. We decided to adopt her. She was my cat ever since I was four. When I named her, her name was supposed to be Anne Coal, but I misspelled it and we kept it that way ever since then. She slept on my bed every single night and even waited for me to get in bed. She would meow at me until I got into bed. She slept with me until the day she passed away. Anncole cheated death seven years ago (melanoma in an eye we removed) and last year when she wouldn't eat for about a week then miraculously fought back and survived. She gave amazing headbutts and was by my side whenever I was upset. She was my first cat and will always be the best cat.
