“Archer was an incredible pet and loved his bestie, Leo with all of his heart. He was not the typical warm, cuddly pet that would draw attention of the average person. Instead, he was a bit of a mischievous devil that would find himself in troublesome predicaments quite often. No glass of water, plate of food, or fresh canvas of paint was safe around him. It took a very special person to draw the attention of Archer, and I'm happy he allowed me to have some of his coveted affection every now and then. My heart absolutely broke when he left this world so unexpectedly, but I know he received the most love and best care any animal could hope for.
