“ Our beloved Belle's ashes came home today. All of the beautiful memories we have of her came rushing in, too, and tears fell. We miss her so, so much. Belle was a huge blessing because she came to us at the time we were struggling with the death of our youngest son. In fact, Belle was born on the very day that Scott died and we found this out later when we received her AKC registration in the mail. She instinctively knew that our hearts were broken and she snuggled her way into our life in a very short time. Belle loved us unconditionally and we loved her the same -- pure, unselfish love. We hope our God makes a place in heaven for our fur babies. We would love to see her again -- running and playing like she did in her younger, healthier days. We will always be indebted to you and we will always love and cherish you, baby girl! 💜💜
