“ Claire Elizabeth found each other on a rainy night. She found refuge in my window from the rain. I wanted someone to love so badly and there she was. I took her in and made a appointment for the vet. She was then just under a year old. I feel that God puts love in our path when he knows we need it most and that was her to me. Every morning began with a head nuzzle. I feel like sometimes when I was really exhausted she knew to wait a little longer. She loved birds and squirrels. I made certain she had a observation deck at the best window in the house. She also enjoyed the coy pond at the park. I only wish I had taken her more often. She was highly intelligent. I feel that the acknowledgment of intelligence in a being assists them in doing amazing things. Love is the best teacher and she was that for me . I hope and feel that I was that for her. Like children pets look to us for companionship direction . When you love them back it can make any day better. I believe that there must be a heaven for pets too. If a soul is capable of love how could there not be. I hope in her passing she will find joy and unconditional love just like the love and joy she gave me.
