

CoCo Sampson

October 24, 2025

When I first held you, I named you Lil Bit (you was that tiny) then I changed your name to coco (you definitely seemed to like it a lot more). I was so blessed to be your mom for the past 9 years. You was always with me through all the curveballs life threw my way. When I first got you, I remember you fit in the palms of my mom's hands. You use to bark at literally the air and some days it got on my nerves but damn do I miss your bark right now coco! You was a one in a million cause the way you ended up in my arms at just 4 weeks was most definitely God sending you to me! I miss you more than words could ever express, your crate and bed is still in the same spot, I haven't been able to bring myself to put them away just yet. I know you're up in doggy heaven with Charlie, Sugar, Mack, and Thor running around playing with no pain anymore. You will ALWAYS be my baby and no other dog can ever replace you coca-dee. I'm gonna miss you riding on my shoulders any time we got in the car even as you got bigger and could hardly fit behind me!
