“ Dixon was a 8 month old basset hound mix, who stole my whole heart. The short time that I had him was some of the best moments of my life. I was depressed and dealing with a lot. I got Dixon and it was like I was complete again. Dixon was the most important thing to me. I never thought anything could make me so happy, just like simply looking at me with his sad little baggy eyes. Dixon escaped through the garage Tuesday morning, and got hit by car. I know he went to doggie heaven and is having a wonderful time playing with his new friends. Dixon loved to play, he loved to give kisses, he loved riding in the car and sticking his head out of the window, while riding in my lap everyday. He loved being around other dogs, his favorite thing to do was go to daycare at Dog Days, he would beat me to the door. Dixon was a very special puppy, he was so unique. He had the cutest underbite, and crooked foot. He definitely took a piece of my heart with him when he went to heaven. Dixon is now my guardian angel, and is now everywhere I go in my heart. I love you Dixon <3
