“ Gracie was feral when I found her and was always a shy, solitary cat who liked to hang out under my bed most of the time. It was because of this that I don't have many pictures of her. Although it took me several years to get to the point where I could pet her, she was very affectionate in her later years. I am so thankful I found her when I did because she lost most of her eyesight and her hearing when she got older. I miss Gracie very much.
