

Major Hiott

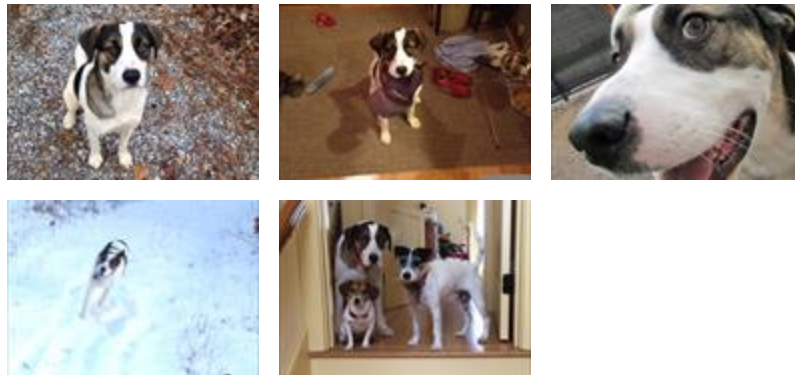

February 27, 2025

So long for now, my dear sweet Major. I will miss you terribly. You have been my most beloved companion, and just overall, the greatest canine I've ever known. You just showed up one day, perfect in every way, even though we didn't realize it yet. Mom tried to shoo you away, but you just rolled over on top of her feet and requested a belly rub. As I watched all this from the kitchen window, I knew you had found your home and you found us. Thank you for all the years of joy and unconditional love that you gave us. You've changed me in ways too many to count, and I'm forever grateful. Also, thanks for just being there and helping me/us through all the tough times. I had no idea that dog kisses were so therapeutic! I do believe all dogs go to heaven, but I heard a lot of people say that animals go to a different heaven than people. I think we're all technically animals and you showed me all the time that you had a better soul than a lot of humans I've met. I hope we all go to the same heaven because I know Mom will be waiting for you, and I'll just catch up with you all later. I love you good boy.

Tribute Wall

DH

“ 8 files added to the tribute wall

David Hiott - April 21, 2025 at 03:26 PM

DH

“ So long for now, my dear sweet Major. I will miss you terribly. You have been my most beloved companion, and just overall, the greatest canine I've ever known. You just showed up one day, perfect in every way, even though we didn't realize it yet. Mom tried to shoo you away, but you just rolled over on top of her feet and requested a belly rub. As I watched all this from the kitchen window, I knew you had found your home and you found us. Thank you for all the years of joy and unconditional love that you gave us. You've changed me in ways too many to count, and I'm forever grateful. Also, thanks for just being there and helping me/us through all the tough times. I had no idea that dog kisses were so therapeutic! I do believe all dogs go to heaven, but I heard a lot of people say that animals go to a different heaven than people. I think we're all technically animals and you showed me all the time that you had a better soul than a lot of humans I've met. I hope we all go to the same heaven because I know Mom will be waiting for you, and I'll just catch up with you all later. I love you good boy.

David Hiott - April 21, 2025 at 03:00 PM