“ It is now April and still miss my "sweetie little Nut Dog" I have had more health problems and is so strange to feel her there when I was laying in the floor unconscious. I could feel warm breath and a tugging on my sleeve. God does let them see you I so believe. she came all the way from "Rainbow Bridge" to make sure I was gonna get up again.

Thank you Sandy for your visit. I know I'm not crazy. and I miss you so much.

God Bless you my sweetie.

“ Just this side of heaven is a place called Rainbow Bridge. When an animal dies that has been especially close to someone here, that pet goes to Rainbow Bridge.

There are meadows and hills for all our special friends so they can run and play together. There are trees to climb, bugs to chase, warm rays of sunshine to curl up in. We all can run and play together, There is plenty of food, water and sunshine and our friends are warm and comfortable.

All animals that have been ill and old are restored to health and vigor; those who were hurt or maimed are made whole and strong again, just as we remember them in our dreams of days and times gone by. The animals are happy and content, except for one small thing: They miss someone very special to them, who have been left behind. They run and play together but the day comes when one suddenly stops and looks into the distance. Their bright eyes are intent; their eager body begins to quiver, their whiskers twitch.

Suddenly they begin to run from the group, flying over the green grass, their legs carrying them faster and faster

YOU have been spotted and when you and your special friend finally meet you cling together in joyous reunion, never to be parted again. Your hands again caress the beloved head and you look once more into the trusting eyes of your special pet, so long gone from your life, but never absent from your heart.

Then you cross the Rainbow Bridge together...

“ There is but one God and he gives us all a soul. Therefore so does each of our dear pets have a soul given unto them by his grace. Don't let grief remain in your life over her passing. Grieve and remember that you will see her again and with his healing you will get through. She is with your Heavenly father and the rest of your family that has gone on before you. she is happy there believe it or not. and someday God too will call you home and you and all your family will be together again. Running in Gods pure light and unconditional love.

After another trip back from the farm. She was so tired after each trip of running and playing all weekend. See she did always think she was a bit human. slept with her blanket and pillow just like a real person would. Wasn't she a great friend to me.

“ Sandy Cheeks passed away on February 17 th. 2016 at 4:26 am. she passed quietly in my arms after a long and loving life. she was my best friend and my companion for 13 years. she was one of the most unique dogs I have ever known. she was self taught in house breaking and after she was grown she learned to almost know what you were saying literally! she assisted me in getting the right medications and the right ones every time without me even teaching her which were which. she was a lover of the outdoors and self taught in tracking and hunting. she loved kids and women around her all the time. My boy's loved her so much as well. I cannot thank my son for taking care of her when the time came for me to leave and find a job to get back to town where I lived and wanted to work. she always knew each persons car from miles away and loved all animals even cats and wanted to play and be mother to any animal she came across.

it is with deep sorrow that I say goodbye to my "little nut dog" and I will forever be awaiting the time in which we will be together again. she wanted a mom again before she left and she got it as my life changed because of her being so cute. she slept with her new mom the week before she passed and you could tell she was on cloud nine when her new mom was around.

May God Bless and hold my loving dog in his arms an in his kingdom for ever and ever. some day we will meet again my sweetie.

still find myself calling her when I get home. calling her to get in the bed to sleep and calling for her to go out for a walk. I guess this will taper off with time. But in a strange way it helps me heal and lets me know she is still with me in spirit. I even started to put a clean water bowl down last night. caught myself and smiled while I cried myself to sleep.

well here it is now in March and it seems she is still awaiting me when I get home. I still call her and say "Hey Sweetie Daddy's home and is so painful when I realize it is habit and more painful that I will not see her coming around the corner with her happy little trot and excitement. May God help me to heal and not to forget but to rejoice in knowing she is in his kingdom and far better off than here in a world of hurt and pains. Daddy loves you "Nut Dog". I sure wish others would share their feelings about Sandy. As I know how she touched so many lives.

Well the months have passed me by and I still find myself crying from time to time. I so miss my little nut dog. She comes to me in my dreams and we play and visit the farm together and all the many places we used to go. I even find myself still looking in the back seat expecting to see her there and me tell her "Lets Ride" or we are here sweetie. I don't think I will ever get over her or any thing she ever did for me. My God hold her gently in his arms till the day I can come be with her and my other wonderful dog of many many years ago called Cinder. I know they are together and playing awaiting dad.

How long does a man have to wait. She is gone like the wind but memories remain. everyday I see something that reminds me of her. I miss her so much and wish she could be with me now more than ever. I am going to have a surgery that I may not survive and I guess she will be there in my dreams and in the point in which I am clinically dead perhaps I may see her face and perhaps even the face of my Lord God.

*Miss you still my "little Nut Dog"
Love Daddy*

Well here is the new year and still the loss is hitting me from time to time. I moved away to a new home and it was so hard not to have her with me except knowing her ashes will always be where ever I go. I cannot get another dog as it just would not be the same. funny how I still think of her when I get home and I laughed the other day when dinner was all done there was no sweetie to clean the plates for the dishwasher. my girl laughed and cried with me and reminded me its o.k. to grieve and turn a pain into a good thoughtful memory. we love you sandy girl. hope you found my mom and cinder and all your family there in the great wonderful world of Heaven. God Bless you my "Nut Dog"

Well I survived my surgery and it was a trip in which I am still quite quietly shaken by. as I went to sleep I felt myself going clinically dead. floating off the bed. then I heard Her bark and there she was. weather or not it was all a dream it was nice to see her and even seems I touched her soft head for strength. stranger that when I got to my room there was some of her hair in my clean cloths I was wearing. either was what a good dream in a most terrifying time for me. Thank you "Nut Dog" Your Daddy loves you so much

Well I have moved away to a new place and still find myself looking for her at night and sometimes I even feel she hops on the bed with me. I don't think I will ever get over her even after all these years I find myself daydreaming of that wonderful dog on mine. I miss my friend and sweetie girl so much

*They say love is bitter sweet and memories are all that remains. It is so true. even today October 24 I still am thinking of her. Dreamed all night of her and her memory is indeed wonderful but makes for a somewhat down day of Missing her when you cant seem to get back all her wonderful times it makes me realize there are so many things lost I cannot regain like her.
Daddy loves you Sandy.....*

Well got me a new sweetie I guess. A Beagle I call Bella. she is so cute but I still find myself calling her Sandy, Cinder and all the other great dogs like Sandy I use to have in my life. Bella is great and most hard headed as well, but she acts a lot like Sandy and many days is found sleeping on her and Cinders Memorial in my apartment. Bella won't take all my pain away but she will be a dog that will have to fill some big paws from where she is coming and going. Love to all my sweeties gone and here with me. God Be Praised!!!
