“ Scout was born a few days prior to Christmas. He was one of a litter of 4..I made a few people smile when I referred to Scout as a christmas gift from his mother and father that I also greatly loved. Out of that litter I kept Scout and his sister. Vanilla. I always said I considered Scout the pick of the litter, but always added don't tell Vanilla, because I love her, too...Scout is survived by his mother, Pumpkin , his sister, Vanilla, and his adopted Uncle, Buster, who is a larger breed.Scout was preceded in passing by his father, Jacks..Scout was greatly loved and is missed. My friend has a toddler that is less than 2 years old and she loved Scout. Since his passing every time she visits. she asks for Scout. I tell her Scout was a good boy and she agrees by saying good boy.I try telling her that Scout has gone to heaven, she doesn't understand about heaven but she knows he is gone and she tells me I miss him. Makes me cry, because I miss him, too.

Scout always enjoyed life. He was always happy and I think the name Scout suited him, because everything was an adventure for him. There is a young girl that lived down the street , she and her parents would walk by and always stopped to visit the friendly dogs. Scout was her best buddy.She even taught Scout how to dance.He always enjoyed those visits. I remember another time when the usually obedient Scout embarrassed me by ignoring my call and entering the bus that carried senior. citizens to their community center meetings. He walked onto the bus, greeted all the folks, and they loved him. They all laughed, smiled, and took turns petting that precious pup. I didn't mind so much that he had ignored my call when I saw those smiling faces. Scout loved all that attention. I looked at the bus driver, smiled at him, and said something to the effect that elections are coming up and I think Scout just got the senior vote. The driver laughed and agreed. I am thankful for Scout , all the memories, and all the joy he brought.

“ When our daughter Hannah was about 4 years old, we took a walk. We passed Sherry's house and all her dogs came out to greet us. Seeing big does like Goliath (RIP) and Maverick (RIP) for the first time, I did not know what their temperament was, so I grabbed up Hannah and went back home. Sherry contacted me later and assured me the dogs were not mean, but overly friendly.

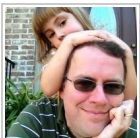

Days later, I took Hannah for another walk. She was scared of the dogs at the top of the road. I told her "I talked to Ms. Sherry. They're not mean dogs, they're friendly dogs." That calmed her a little bit, so up the road we went.

Sure enough, when we rounded the curve we hear a chorus of barking and a pack of about 5 dogs came out to see what we were doing. Hannah grabbed my hand tightly but I said "it's okay, they're the friendly dogs." I squatted down and said "Hey guys! Come here" in the friendliest tone I could. The whole pack came over to us with wagging tails and plenty of sniffs and kisses.

Hannah enjoyed walking up the road to see "the friendly dogs" and her favorite one of all was Scout (pronounced SKY-OUT when she would call him.) The two instantly bonded and shared many memories of walking up the road to visit the Friendly Dogs.
