

Tanner Holland

February 9, 2022

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

KJ

“ That boy was something ,so sweet,and he loved to eat and his treats

Kathy Jeffery - June 11, 2022 at 05:29 PM

TH

“ Walks aren't the sane without you, Tan the Man. Miss you. ☐

Tangie Holland - June 11, 2022 at 04:46 PM

TH

“ It’s so hard to say goodbye. Tanner went downhill today, and we knew it was time to let him go no matter how hard it hurts. These are pix from today and saying goodbye. Tan the Man was such a great dog, always happy and not a single mean cell in his body. He was a pleaser and our own little caboose of the bunch. He would run so hard his big ears would flop in the wind, but always be the last in the pack. The day we fostered him we found the best, most loyal companion. He walked with me in the spring and summer, every lap with no complaints, no matter how tired he was or how much his hind legs hurt from 2 ACL surgeries. He had the saddest face when he laid on his bed, but you knew all was OK when his tail started wagging as soon as you said “Hey Tan Tan”. His nose was the best in the land, true to his beagle breed. And his bark was known to all, for miles. He was an old man who grunted and snored like there was no tomorrow, even to the bitter end. And his farts could make your eyes water. He loved food more than life itself, about as much as he loved Coco and Daisy. I know Coco was the first to greet him at the rainbow bridge, and they are licking one another and enjoying unlimited treats. Rest easy my sweet boy. Until we see you again. We love you and will miss your gentle demeanor every day. Thank you for rescuing us. ❤️👤🌈
CANCERSUX

Tangie Holland - May 22, 2022 at 01:30 PM